

Neha Arora

MD + MBA

Hometown: Dallas, TX

Undergraduate Institution: Texas A&M University

Undergraduate Degree: BS in Biology

Why do you want to be a physician?

As a physician I will be able to combine my passion for medicine with leadership, communication, and a strong desire to give back to the community. Healthcare is constantly changing and I want to be a part of a field that pushes me to present the best version of myself everyday.

Why did you choose Texas A&M College of Medicine?

I attended Texas A&M for my undergraduate degree and loved the experience. This school values collaboration, service, and leadership - traits that are central to the field of medicine. A&M also has supportive faculty and staff, a welcoming environment, and a commitment to the success of their students, all of which made it the best choice for me.

Why did you choose to pursue a graduate degree in addition to the MD?

Medicine is an increasingly interdisciplinary field that requires physicians to be proficient in more than just the science of medicine. I chose to pursue an MBA to further expand my perspective of the healthcare field and to help bridge the gap between business and medicine. In the future I hope to utilize the knowledge and skills gained through the MBA to address medical inefficiencies, lack of healthcare in underserved areas, and to improve patient dissatisfaction.

What are your career goals and how do you feel the MD Plus Program will help you?

The MD Plus Program has vastly broadened my career options, whether that be starting a private practice, pursuing healthcare management, or working as a healthcare consultant. This program gives students an opportunity to supplement and enrich their medical education which ultimately helps them become better physicians.